

Hello my beautiful team!

A bit of notes from today:

- The topic of the next 2 classes, includes that one, is Project Management.
- We discussed assessment 2, which deadline is week 9.
- It's individual research report. Laura asked us to think about the topic, but, if I understand it correctly (Preeti will fix me if I'm wrong), it has to be applicable to our project and contains a case study + some theory.
- All our team has to have different area of the research. Development, design, marketing, project management... etc. For example, I choose (I hope that I won't change my mind) Project management tools and methods how to apply it in the small projects. I'll discussed it with Laura later again, but I started to think about that now.
- We shown our first design to Laura and she had couple of notes about that:
 - Change About us - Why us
 - Contact us - last one to the menu
- She recommended one topic for research as well... Design area: Story telling and Gamification
- Me and Preeti were thinking about changing the dashboard system. It looks quite difficult for us now and Im not sure that we'll be able to manage it on time and in appropriate quality. So, I was thinking about to make a dashboard on the external system like Blackboard in learnJCU. I found one decision, it's Moodle, but:
 - We have to discuss it with Laura. I'll send her an email after couple of days and we'll see what she say
 - If we choose that decision and Laura would approve it... we have to add some more programming part because in that case, this project would be just about front end part and redirection. Preeti, Harshitha, please think about what kind of features we could add to the project to make it interesting. One of the ideas was to add a function Language test to the website. When new student comes, he needs to know what level of language he has. So, he could be tested easier through website and export results to the pdf and show it to the teacher. Harshitha, what do you think about that?

I think it's all for today. We still need to create a database scheme and continue working on the project. We could do a Skype (or whatever) online meeting next week and discuss our progress and problems. Is that OK for you?
